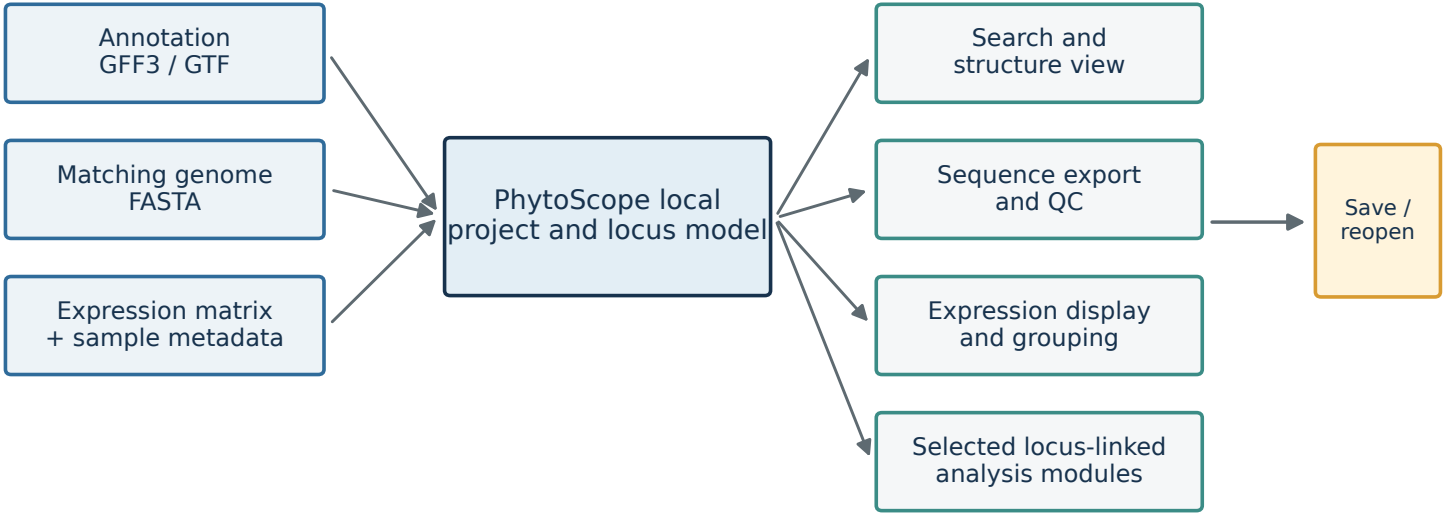
A local, file-driven plant query workflow



User files remain the source of biological content; missing information is not inferred.